We Reward the Criminal

Two recent local robberies attracted the customary space in this newspaper. In each instance the amount of money taken was relatively small.

In one case the victim was beaten. In the other no injury was inflicted. Neither of the robbers have been apprehended but enough clues exist to indicate that both may be brought to justice.

When the criminals are captured and tried, there is a good chance that both may get "social aid" instead of penalties. In some of the past crimes such aids have included "rehabilitation" in which funds for food, clothing and transportation would be made available so that the robber's needs would not be so great as to encourage him to continue his criminal habits. Theoretically, if he falls back into his law-breaking ways again, it is the taxpayer's fault. They have not yet provided him with enough funds to remove his desire for more and better things than he is now getting.

Nobody asked, but there are a great number of law-abiders who would like to get more out of life than they are now getting. And one of the things they would like to get is to get away from supporting these criminals in open society. They want a penalty to fit the crime.

What about the victims? In both cases they were non-executive employees and suffered no financial loss.

Victims 1 and 2: Both females. One a cashier. The other a clerk. The cashier suffered such psychological reactions that she was unable to work until this week—two weeks after the robbery. She says she is often smothered by a feeling of fear as customers approach her cash-taking post with their purchase. She is deathly afraid to enter her apartment after work if her husband isn't already there. And even so she fears that it might be some stranger who opens the door.

Victim 2: The execution of the crime didn't bother her at the time. But, a few days later she became emotionally agitated and nauseated. She had to go home. Every couple of days the same thing happens. There is nothing specific that seems to trigger the illness beyond the recollection that it happened. She said the illness cycle is not diminishing.

Victim 3: A service station youth was not only robbed, he was beaten. The robber forced him to put his head down on the desk in the station's office. He repeatedly struck him in the same spot on his head with a club, threatening his life if he lifted his head. Some of his blood got on the money he had been forced to hand over. The robber, believing the victim to be unconscious, separated the bloody money from the rest and tossed the bloody bills on the floor, fearing they would incriminate him later.

The victim is both frustrated and angry. He knows it could happen again. He angrily examines the face of every patron, wondering if he could have been the robber. The two emotions consume him. He admits it has changed his life style. And his physical being, too, he reminds, pointing to the numerous stitches that dot his scalp.

This recitation is presented here for the purpose of asking a question. Who helps the innocent victims? Do they get counseling service, funds for medical help, and a platoon of "public payroll experts" guiding them to a safer and better life?

When the pendulum swings back to the idea of a free society—one made safer from such transgressions by exacting properly designed penalties from criminals who have created a victim—we will wonder how it was possible to live in this dark age when we reward the criminal while ignoring those he injured.

Anxious Reader:

Honestly, we don't know whether the energy crunch stems from U.S. oil producers or from the mid-East oil tycoons. With a reported 10 per cent of our fuel coming from the mid-East, it seems strange that it could wreck the economy of our country as quickly as conservationists are suggesting.

Thoughts linger in our logic. One: Producers put fear into Washington when they were not permitted to raise prices. They said most service stations would be out of gasoline during the three or four week's period they had the pressure on. Truth is, few motorists were unable to get fuel. Producers got higher prices.

Two: Washington lawmakers are not above suspicion. It becomes increasingly difficult to believe what they are saying about the energy crunch, or anything else.

Third: There has been a continuing pressure for developing oil in Alaska. The ecologists had the promoters stopped cold. The crunch cut down their effectiveness, however, and Congress approved the Alaskan pipeline.

The overriding concern is this: How could those in government responsible for so important a function as energy supply, let the terrible economic force be brought upon those least able to defend themselves against it? They are, as you already know, the working taxpayers.

Trailer Damaged By Fire

The Spring Valley Fire Department, for the week of Nov. 12-19, answered seven fire calls and ten ambulance calls. Most of the fire calls were to small grass fires, with no damage, but there was one fire which involved property damage.

On Nov. 14, at 6:52 p.m., called to Southbay freeway firemen responded to a call to the B and W Hardware storage area. There, they discovered that a camp trailer, belonging to a E. M. Hogan, was emitting smoke through one door. Further checking determined a leak in the butane gas line to the refrigerator, which ignited, causing about $500 damage to the contents of the trailer and $20 to the trailer, itself.

Three persons were injured in three individual vehicle accidents during the week.

On Nov. 15, at Jaylee and Elkton blvd., Robert A. Cooley, 20, of 8714 Noeline, Spring Valley, was picked up and hospitalized, after being injured in a motorcycle accident.

Nov. 17 the ambulance was called to Southbay freeway and Sweetwater rd. There, Marc Brown, 24, of Chula Vista had been injured in a car accident, but volunteered to drive himself to a hospital.

Nov. 19 James Looney, 20, of Chula Vista, drove his light truck off the freeway onto Quarry dr., and was thrown out of the vehicle. He sustained cuts and bruises and was hospitalized. (The accident occurred in the same place where a man was killed a couple of weeks ago).

Monte Vista Swim Center Completion Seen By Dec. 1

By December 1, water should flow into a swimming pool at Monte Vista High School, signaling the completion of an athletic complex and five years of effort on the part of Grossmont Unified School District, the high school and interested parents.

Monday night, the school district voted to accept $48,099 from the County of San Diego towards completion of the aquatic center, the total cost being $193,000.

Included in the complex is the football field, the ticket booths and refreshment stands and finally, the swimming pool.

Other board actions included approval of Sea World as a consultant to oceanography classes at Helix High School, as one of the innovation projects included in the 1973-74 budget.

Cost of the program included $480 to Sea World for lecture demonstrations during 32 separate field trips involving 25 different students who experienced an average of 14 field trips each. Sea World will be paid at the end of the program.

At Mt. Miguel High, the board approved hiring two Escondido teachers for a one-day workshop to be conducted Friday, December 7.

The workshop, to cost $200, would involve improvement of reading skills, which Principal R. L. Pyle considers the most basic problem confronting the school, improvement of communication skills and motivation.

Mrs. Jan Mickey and Mrs. Rosemary Grissold of Escondido are expected to inform 12 administrators and teachers from Mt. Miguel and Mt. Vernon elementary School in Lemon Grove, Pyle said. The two have conducted similar workshops in other school districts.

The concept of what is called cross-age teaching is expected to involve an elective class of 25 students, who would spend two days a week in planning and preparation and critique, and three days a week teaching, by high school students, at the elementary level.

The board also approved a temporary assignment, effective immediately, of Mrs. Jan Mickey to the Escondido school district.

Plans called for the lab to be completed by February, 1974, but student services vice president Gerald Reckin anticipates completion for either the summer or fall session.

The electronics lab will eventually be divided into three programs. There will be a foundations course in general electronics technology, one in home entertainment repair and maintenance which will involve television, stereos, and radios, and a course on electronic business machines such as computers, calculators and cash register.

Students will be issued certificates upon completion of the course. Reckin believes that students may expect salaries in excess of $4 per hour in an electronics career. The work is of highly technical nature and some math will be a prerequisite.

A call to the Humane Society and the Animal Control Center resulted in at least one of the strays being picked up, but late Friday night the dead dog was still lying in the street, the concerned housewife said.

Good Food In Future For Area's Elderly

There's a good-food center one will be the largest of eleven such facilities in the future of the elderly in the county.

How it will operate and where it will be located is yet to be determined, but the local Commission on Aging for the future of the elderly in the county.

The County Board of Supervisors last week authorized Human Resources Agency to contract with the California

The development of the eleven centers is under the direction of a Lemon Grove man—Rich Thomson, director of the San Diego office of Senior Citizen Affairs. He lives on Primera st.

"We're going to provide a nutrition program for more than 100 persons in Lemon Grove and part of Spring Valley," he said. "We plan to feed them a hot meal daily, five days a week. We are also planning to work out a 'meals on wheels' project through a local service club."

Thomson said that there are several legal details that need to be worked out before the program starts. "It will probably be the first of the year when it gets underway locally," he said.

Each of the centers will be self governing. Menus will be patterned after the cultural standards of each community, Thomson said.

Lois Heiserman, a representative of the Lemon Grove Senior Optimist club, said her club had volunteered to take over the "meals - wheels" project. Mrs. Heiserman also serves on a committee that will be advisory to program's officials.

The committee had recommended that the Lemon Grove Youth Center, on School lane, be utilized for the center. It has been suggested that the local school system oversee the preparation of menus. The school district would be paid for its services out of a pot of more than $400,000 being supplied by the California Commission on Aging.

Senior citizens would pay for their meals. The amount is to be determined when the menus are prepared—but the cost will be well below that of a profit-making organization operating the center. Elderly persons will be employed to carry on the local programs.

In addition, health and welfare counseling, nutritional education and arrangements for transportation to the centers will also be provided.

L.G. CoC Meeting To Be Week Later

The regular monthly meeting of the board of directors of the Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce has been set for Thursday, Nov. 29, according to Helen Myers, CoC secretary.

Meetings are normally held on the fourth Thursday which was Thanksgiving.

A new board member is to be elected and a discussion will be held on the Christmas lighting contest in view of the conservation crisis.

Meetings are held at Pal's Cafe at noon. The public is invited.

Xmas Clubbers Get Good News

There's good news in the mail for Christmas Club members this holiday season.

Four area banks have announced distribution of funds saved by Christmas Clubbers, with totals ranging from $20,000 to $110,222.

The latter figure was sent to Spring Valley members of the Bank of America's club, while Lemon Grovers received a total of $62,776. Membership numbered 507 in Spring Valley, 298 in Lemon Grove.

Crocker Bank, formerly U. S. National, reported distribution of $23,000 to 94 clubbers, while San Diego Trust and Savings returned $20,722 to 2,000 savers, the bank announced. Southern California First National reported San Diegans, some 9,300, had saved $2,227,952 in club accounts.

Stray Dogs Invade Neighborhood

A snarling pack of stray dogs began tearing each other to pieces last week in a block, according to Mrs. June Schroeder, 1669 San Altos pl., Lemon Grove.

When the fighting was over, there were two animals dead, one directly across the street from her home and the other at the end of the block, Mrs. Schroeder said.

Delay Seen in Second Tijuana Gate Crossing

A second border crossing in the San Diego area—once considered a sure thing—is now a "somewhat iffy proposition," Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-San Diego, said last week.

Two locations for new border gates have been endorsed by the U. S. Customs Bureau—one on Otay Mesa to the east of the present San Ysidro crossing and the other at Playas de Tijuana on the coast.

Van Deerlin said U.S. officials had been thinking in terms of a location near the foot of Harvest rd. on Otay Mesa for a $2.8 million Customs facility.

"Now, however, the Mexicans have indicated they would prefer a site about two miles further east," the San Diego lawmaker said. "Some

The second additional crossing, once planned for the Playas de Tijuana area, is at least temporarily out of the picture, thanks to the decision by the city of San Diego to curtain development in the Tia Juana River flood plain.

If the more distant location finally is approved, he said, the county would have to come up with "considerably more" than the $430,000 it now estimates as its share of the cost of access roads.

Van Deerlin said he hoped a new crossing can be built. "The daily traffic of 42,000 vehicles between San Ysidro and Tijuana is far too heavy for the single crossing we now have, even when all 24 lanes are open," he said.

Lighting Contest Canceled In SV

Because of the energy shortage, the annual Spring Valley Chamber of Commerce Christmas lighting contest will not be held this year, according to an announcement by chamber president Raydene Shepard.

Mrs. Shepard said the decision to cancel came on the heels of the announcement of a cutback in national energy resources. Disappointed home decorators will have to wait until the problem is solved to light up for Christmas, she said.

16-Year-Old Nabbed On Dope Charge

A 16-year-old was arrested last week by sheriff's deputies on charges of allegedly attempting to sell marijuana on the campus of Monte Vista High School.

According to a report made by juvenile officer C. J. Larson, the youth was noticed missing from a second period class by vice principal Larry Timmins of the high school. He and another vice principal approached a group of youngsters at the rear of the campus and reportedly found the youth attempting to peddle the weed.

The juvenile had five lids of marijuana he was trying to sell at $10 each, Timmins told investigating deputies. The lad was placed under arrest and taken to the Sheriff's Station in Lemon Grove, where his parents were contacted.

Two days later, the youngster's father called Deputy Larson to turn in one-half pound of the narcotic. The father said his son had reportedly purchased a pound of marijuana for $75 and was attempting to recoup his investment.

The youth was released to his parents and the case was marked closed after the marijuana was confiscated.

Tuition Grants Available Now

Senator John Stull (R-38th District) today announced the availability of applications for Occupational Education and Training Grants.

"These grants, which come under the auspices of the California State Scholarship and Loan Commission, will be available in my office at 4817 Palm ave., La Mesa," Stull said. "They must be submitted before Jan. 27th, 1974 and will be for the academic year of 1974-75," he continued.

500 grants for this program are provided to students who have the aptitude and desire to train for specific occupations, vocations or technical careers, but do not have the financial resources to enter training programs in public or private institutions.

"These competitive grants are used to defray institutional fees, charges and costs in the nature of tuition not to exceed $2000 for the calendar year plus up to $500 for training related costs such as special clothing, local transportation, required tools, equipment, supplies and books," Stull reported.

From 100 to more than 500 years are required to produce a layer of garden type peat one foot thick.

Heartland Creative Group Plans Celebration Banquet

The Heartland Creative Community Association will hold a Celebration Banquet on Monday evening, Nov. 26, at 6:30 in the Community Room of Sears Roebuck, in El Cajon. Everyone is welcome to attend, and those joining the organization during 1973 will be considered charter members.

The program, under the chairmanship of Forrest McKinley of El Cajon, will include an inspirational slide and sound presentation by the Rev. Dan Erlander of Spring Valley, followed by short explanations of the various facets of activity now underway. Speakers will include Mesdames Richard Teague, John Flaniken, and Wayne Funk. Cloyd Kitt and Raymond Murphy, both educators, will also speak.

A suggested slate of officers, headed by Glenn Murdock of La Mesa, will be presented by Dr. Eugene Farrar of Santee, although nominations will be welcomed at the banquet. Arrangements are being handled by Mrs. George Davies, Lucille Moore and Martha Melvin. Decorations and name tags will be provided by the La Mesa Junior Women's Club under the fine Arts Chairman, Mrs. W. K. Karbosky. Mrs. Fred Heinzelman has designed and made

Gas Stations Face $500 a Day Fine

SAN DIEGO (CNA) — County service stations that fail to meet the Jan. 1 deadline for gasoline vapor collecting systems, will face fines of $500 per day.

According to Dr. J. B. Askew, county air pollution officer, it is expected that only about 100 of the county's 1,200 service stations will be able to install approved systems by the deadline. Storage tanks containing more than 550 gallons come under the ruling.

"Unless the Air Pollution Control Board changes the deadline, service stations without the control device will be in violation if they pump gas," Askew said.

Supervisor Dick Brown said "State and federal governments have adopted it and we can't waive the rule. However, we might waive the right to enforce it."

"I think reasonable requests for variance would probably be granted, but they would have to demonstrate that they are going ahead with plans to install acceptable systems."

UCSD Opens Registration For Fall, '74

Applications for undergraduate admission for the fall quarter of 1974 are now being accepted at the University of California, San Diego.

The open filing period began Nov. 1 and will continue through Nov. 30. It will be extended after November only if the campus has not reached its enrollment quotas.

Students should apply this month to be assured of consideration at UCSD as their first choice of the University of California's eight general campuses.

Application packets for undergraduate admission are available from high school and community college counselors or from the UCSD admissions office, Building 102, Matthews Campus. A nonrefundable fee of $20 is required when filing an application.

UCSD will consider all applications filed during November. Applications submitted after the open filing period will be reviewed only if enrollment quotas have not been reached. The quotas limit the number of new freshmen and new advanced standing students who may be admitted. Once quotas have been filled, additional applications are redirected to other UC campuses where enrollments are still open.

If UCSD exceeds its enrollment quotas during the open filing period, some applicants will be requested to consider one of the other UC campuses in accord with preferences listed on their applications.

Last year, UCSD was able to accept all qualified students who applied during November. The school filled its enrollment quota for new freshmen on Nov. 30 and reached its quota for new advanced students later in the academic year.

Capacity Crowd Fetes Former Supervisor Boney

More than 400 persons paid homage to former supervisor Henry Boney recently at a testimonial dinner at Bahia Hotel.

Boney, a popular supervisor in the Second Supervisorial District, had announced early in his second term that he would not seek a third term. He held that programs that were not successfully introduced by a supervisor in two terms had little chance of being passed.

If Boney should run for the Board of Equalization he would run against incumbent John Lynch, a Fresno Democrat. Boney is a Republican.

Boney, a native of Texas, was a successful businessman before entering politics. He was founder of 7-11 convenience markets and another chain.

County Names Purchasing Boss

Willis M. Burgeson, 53, has been appointed the new Purchasing Agent for the County of San Diego, John A. Bruhn, County Fiscal Coordinator, has announced.

Burgeson has worked in the University of California purchasing system for nearly 25 years including direction of purchasing, inventory control, receiving and stores.

The county appointment was effective Nov. 19. Burgeson scored highest of more than 30 applications screened through the civil service system.

'Status Quo Vadis'— Guaranteed to Amuse

By Max Goodwin

If a "guarantee" could be given on theatre entertainment, "Status Quo Vadis", now playing at Off Broadway in San Diego could qualify.

It is good theatre, it is well cast, it is entertaining without being shallow, and it leaves plenty of room for providing your own interpretation of its social implications.

Ray Walston, who tube-watches know as their "Favorite Martian" is starred. Lesser known members of the cast are equally able in their roles in this odd show that is completely believable—even to three box-like frames that become all the props for all the sets.

It is a sort of girl-meets-boy, boy-gets-girl, and all-signals-over kind of show written by Donald Driver, Driver, who is also director, never lets your mind wander from what he is offering on his stage.

The story line has workers in a conglomerate involved in some socio-romantic activities and as members of a five-level society. The masses are numbered "5" with the wealthy numbered "1". The numbers are cleverly worked into the apparel each wears.

It naturally follows that a "5" boy falls in love with a "1" girl. It doesn't have a 5-1 conclusion, however. It's far more intricate, stimulating and original than that.

An excerpt from a press release concerning "Quo Vadis" Hartzog have booked a re-ums up the plot overly well. "Playwright Driver's settings is the use of metal frames and wood boxes, shifted about by actors to resemble each place of action. Yet, the changes are indeed subtle because Driver's point is the play itself. One of Driver's ingenious tactics not only involves double meanings in almost all he says, but inter-related dialogue as well. Within a few short hours he manages to hilariously relay messages that all humans, whether Catholics, Protestants, rich and poor, educated and ignorant (in Driver's scale, from 1-5) have the same gutsy and basic drives: sex, money, power."

The release concludes with the observation "as a satirical comedy, it provides an alternative to society's idiocy."

We think so, too. In addition to Walston, there's David Wilson (20th Century film "The Seven Up"); Gail Strickland, soap opera star; Pamela Galloway, (teevee's "Bridget Loves Bernie"); Karen Woodward (Broadway); Geraldine Kay (Broadway) award winner; George Womack, (teevee, films, radio-actor, director, producer) Otto Schlesinger (movies, teevee); Joel Stedman (Houston stage); James Lakin, professional writer and actor (Off Broadway) and Katherine Korla, (NBC's "T.H.E. Cat").

In one scene a Catholic priest and an Episcopalian priest simultaneously preside at a confessional. It is one of the funniest, yet inoffensive, scenes in the production. "Status Quo Vadis" should attract capacity audiences during its run through December 9.

Don Wortman and Tom Hartzog have booked a re-ums up the plot overly well. "Playwright Driver's settings is the use of metal frames and wood boxes, shifted about by actors to resemble each place of action. Yet, the changes are indeed subtle because Driver's point is the play itself. One of Driver's

Touch of Magic Theme For Helix High's Yule Dance

Touch of Magic is the theme for this year's Helix High School's Christmas Dance sponsored by the Girl's League.

The dance will be held in the Fleet Room of the Hilton Hotel Dec. 14 from 8 to 12 p.m. The band will be Thresh-old.

This dance is a "girl ask boy, boy bring toy" affair. The toys will be given to the Control De Amnaro orphanage in Ensenada, Mexico. The couples will vote for the King and Queen of their choice. Last year's King and Queen, Wilbert Olinda and Laurie Machado, will crown the 1973 King and Queen.

This year's princesses are JoAnn Brown, Clarina Cannizzaro, Susie Frye, Leslee Kolyz, Pam Lacy, and Eileen McNichol.

The princesses are Pat Felde, Dan Garcia, Greg Ponce, Ron Thornton, Dan Wells, and Bill Zeis.

"I hope that everyone will share in the excitement of this year's Christmas Dance. "We have rented the entire Fleet Room and it is large enough so that everyone will have room to move," Pam Lacy, chairman, said.

This year's Christmas Dance is formal or semi-formal. Door prizes will be awarded.

Holiday Sale For Benefit Of Quota Club

A holiday festival, to benefit the charity projects of the San Diego Quota Club, will be held Saturday, Dec. 1 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the clubhouse of the Bayview Mobile Home Park, 2003 Bayview Heights dr.

On sale will be all hand made children's toys, Christmas decorations, ceramics and other gifts, as well as jams, jellies, baked goods and snack bar items.

The Quota Club is a business and professional women's service group.

Flag Presentation Planned Saturday

Members of the Encanto Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 6874 and the auxiliary have scheduled a mass Flag Presentation Saturday at 1 p.m.

The ceremony will be held at the Encanto Recreation Center, 6508 Wunderlin st.

If any youth group, organization or convalescent hospital is in need of an American Flag, they are asked to contact Mrs. Frances Patino at 279-2590.

STRIKE FORCE—San Diego drug abuse problems were discussed at a recent Strike Force workshop in San Diego. Consulting are (from left) Roger Taylor, county drug abuse program official; John Olsen, special consultant to the state drug abuse office, and Howard De Young, program officer for drugs of the Health Care Agency of San Diego County. Lemon Grove Rotarians will join a "walk for health" on Saturday, Dec. 8, as part of a campaign for disease information distribution in California communities.

Dwyer-Taylor Rites Planned For Dec. 7 In Clairemont

The wedding of Michael Jay Dwyer, graduate of Mt. Miguel High School, to San Diegoan Georgi Lynn Taylor has been announced for Dec. 7 in the Clairemont First Assembly of God Church.

Dwyer is the son of Mrs. Barbara Green of Spring Valley and of Roy Dwyer of Pacific Beach. He will be attended by best man Ted Steiger of Culver City, while Dennis Evers of La Mesa and Greg Robinson and Daryle Morgan, both of San Diego, will serve as groom's men.

Area Coeds Featured In Grossmont's Presentation

Two Spring Valley and one Lemon Grove coeds will have featured roles in Grossmont College's presentation of "Dark of the Moon" on two successive weekends.

Angela Sanders, who portrays the Dark Witch and Nancy Relaford as Hattie Heffner are both Spring Valley residents, while Lemon Grove's Margaret Beyford is cast as Leahy.

The play will be presented Thursday and Friday, Nov. 29 and 30, Dec. 1, a Saturday, and Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Dec. 6, 7 and 8. All performances, in the Stage-house Theatre on campus, will begin at 8 p.m.

Directed by Martin F. Gerish with Debra Denson, stage manager; Marie Ponath, house manager; costumes by Clark G. Mires and sets by James W. Baker, "Dark of the Moon" is based on the haunting ballad of Barbara Allen. It is the story of an elfin witch-boy who be- holds the beautiful Barbara Allen and falls in love with her.

The witch-boy makes a contract with a conjur woman to transform him into a human so that he may marry Barbara. The conjur woman complies on the condition that Barbara remains true to him for one year.

The marriage is consummated and Barbara gives birth to a witch-child which the mid-

Gift Wrappers Take Over In December

As a fund raising project to help support their many philanthropies, members of the Lemon Grove Junior Women's Club will man a gift wrapping booth during the month of December. Wrapping will be done at the clubhouse, 2810 Main st. every Thursday from 7-9 p.m. and every Saturday from 9 a.m. until noon.

Persons wishing to save themselves the hassle and bother of wrapping dozens of items may bring their boxed items in and let the juniors do it for a nominal fee. For unboxed items there will be a limited number of boxes available for a small extra charge.

LG Rotary Plans For Health Help

Lemon Grove Rotarians have been invited to participate in a workshop designed to bring Strike Force to San Diego County, Rotary President Bob Guest said today.

Strike Force is a state plan where private service clubs join the San Diego County Health Care Agency, as a clearing house and information center, to attack the problems of alcoholism, dental disease, drug abuse and venereal disease.

Following the workshop, Guest said, the plan will be presented to the membership for approval. According to Dr. Wendy Groner, head of the health care agency's drug and alcohol forces, no date has been set for such a workshop, but she hopes to schedule a meeting in the near future.

Previous service club projects to fight these family health problems have been in effect, but future cooperation between the clubs and the agency should strengthen efforts, Dr. Groner said.

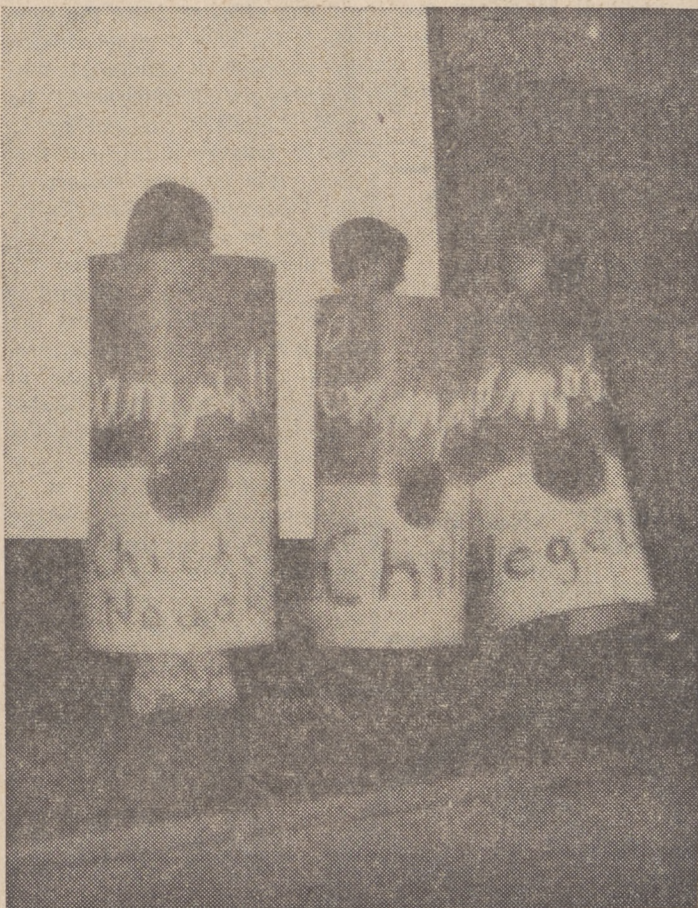

Date Festival Advance Sale Benefits Groups

Organizations can raise money for their various projects or activities by selling special discount Advance-Sale Tickets to the coming 1974 National Date Festival, Feb. 15-24, at Indio.

Already orders have been coming in from clubs, church and youth groups, fraternal and employee organizations and others who will be selling these special tickets in their communities throughout Southern California.

Organizations participating in the program will be able to sell the National Date Festival's regular $1.50 single admission ticket to the public for the reduced price of $1, a 50 cent saving to the purchaser. The selling organization is permitted to make a profit of 25 cents on each ticket sold.

Organizations wishing to participate may receive information by writing or phoning: Advance Sale Ticket Supervisor, National Date Festival, P.O. Drawer NNNN, Indio, Calif. 92201.

LABELS NEEDED—Youngsters at the Spring Valley School are trying to collect enough Campbell soup labels to get, free of charge, an audio visual training aid. Some 4,250 labels are needed by Dec. 8, and so far students have collected less than 500. Danell Hunt, Tim Kounter, both fifth graders and Don Wasko, a sixth grader and student body president, reminded the students at a sing held at the school last week. Parents are asked to save the labels and send them to school with their youngsters. Other soup drinkers, naturally, may join in the savings campaign.

San Diegans Plan Plea For Soviet Jewry Rights

The plight of Soviet Jewry will be brought into sharp focus by all National Jewish Women's Organizations on Human Rights Day, Monday, Dec. 10th. Simultaneously, in over 50 cities, the nationwide "Women's Plea for Human Rights for Soviet Jewry" will bring together representatives of the legislative, educational, human rights and religious communities in programs demonstrating solidarity of concern for Soviet Jews.

Congressman Alphonso Bell will present the key-note address at the San Diego event, 10 to 12 a.m., in the Recital Hall, Balboa Park. Mrs. Joanna R. Mills is serving as Honorary Chairwoman, and women leaders of other community groups will participate.

Sasha Moskovics, of UCSD, Soviet Jewish emigre, will describe his own experiences, and special attention will be given to Prisoner of Conscience Silva Zalmanson, sentenced to 10 years in a labor prison camp, together with her husband and two brothers. This 29-year-old engineer remains critically ill, and according to reports, is being deprived of proper food and medical care.

"Maid of La Mancha," a dramatic musical interpretation of the Soviet Jewish condition, will be presented by members of the United Jewish Federation Women's Division.

Participating in a Chanukah "Freedom of Religion" candle-lighting ceremony will be Dr. Ethyl Aginsky, United Nations Association; Mrs. Dionne Hurt, Church Women United; Sister Sally Furay, National Conference of Christians and

Lutherans Asked To Support Call To U.S. Integrity

Lemon Grove Lutherans were urged Sunday to join in a nation-wide movement to "help restore a moral sense to a shaken society" in a sermon delivered by Rev. Herbert Johnson.

Members of the congregation of the Lemon Grove Lutheran Church heard Pastor Johnson ask them to join the American Lutheran Church's country-wide call to a renewal of national integrity.

Dr. David W. Preus, national church president, has requested all congregations to deal during the Thanksgiving season with "evidence of betrayal of trust and violations of our most basic values and the democratic process at the highest levels of government."

It was in response to this plea that Pastor Johnson told his church members that Watergate and other related high government scandals are a "symptom of our whole society's sickness."

"As concerned citizens," Pastor Johnson said, "we are indicted by our own apathy and indifference. It is not too late to face these problems head-on in order to protect and preserve our fragile democratic system."

"Therefore, as Christians and Americans, we issue this call to a renewal of national integrity," he concluded.

Attempts to impeach President Andrew Johnson in 1868 failed in the Senate by just one vote.

One of the most exciting "Fund raising" events to be held by the Harbor of the Sun Chapter, American Business Women's Association, titled the C.C.C. auction (cash, carry & credit) will be held after the dinner-meeting Monday in the Empire Room of the Hanalei Hotel.

"Gabby" Evelyn Tucker, instigator of the auction, will be the auctioneer. The public is welcome to attend. Proceeds from the auction will be used for the Chapter scholarship fund for deserving young women.

Sue White, Ways and Means chairman is striving hard to collect, price and prepare donations to make this one of the most eventful (Fund-raising) events held by the Chapter.

Program Chairman Penny Pomroy informed us that our program is a "Mystery Speaker."

Marge August, associated with the Carlton Oaks Country Club will present the vocational talk, telling us about her work and experiences concerning operation of this beautiful establishment.

National Farm-City Week Presented to SV Kiwanis

National Farm/City week was observed by the Spring Valley Kiwanis Club at its regular meeting held at the Ox Bow Restaurant last week.

The Farm/City week was moderated by Alex Struthers, Assistant General Manager of the Otay Municipal Water District, with a panel composed of agricultural experts. The theme of the panel discussion was the past, present, and future of agriculture in San Diego County which is rapidly being urbanized.

The panel consisted of Nancy Holland of the El Cajon High School Chapter of the Future Farmers of America. Miss Holland has received many honors for her sheep and dog projects.

She is also currently working with beef cattle and swine in addition to her continuing sheep and dog activities. She represented the student viewpoint and spelled out her hopes for a future in agriculture related fields. Accompanying Miss Holland was Bob Rutherford, an agriculture teacher at El Cajon High School and FFA Counselor.

Rutherford outlined the areas of agricultural courses offered in the Grossmont Union High School District. He revealed that in excess of 400 agriculture students are presently enrolled in El Cajon and El Capitan High School classes. This is a marked increase in the past two years.

Some discussion ensued on the possibility of converting approximately 20 acres of school district property adjacent to the new Valhalla High School in the Hillsdale area. This acreage is located adjacent to the pilot water reclamation plant being operated by the Otay Municipal Water District, which could make an adequate supply of reclaimed water available for irrigation of agricultural projects. The property has been declared ideal for a variety of agricultural conditions by field representatives of the Agricultural Extension Service.

The professional and current agricultural status in the southeastern segment of San Diego County was outlined by James E. Schutte, General Manager of the Otay Ranch, which operates approximately 32,000 acres of combined irrigated, dry farm, and cattle raising activities.

Schutte is also a co-founder of the Otay Municipal Water District and has represented the central areas of the district on the board of directors for nearly 17 years. The Schutte home place, located on what is now the campus of the Southwestern Community College, was Schutte's home from the time he was three years old until the place was sold for development of the campus a few years back. Schutte, a native of San Diego County, was born at Oceanside.

The concerns and programs of the Agricultural Extension Services of the County and the University of California were presented by Victor W. Brown, County Farm Advisor and Director of the University of California's Agricultural Extension Service in San Diego County.

Brown pointed out that there were some good and some bad aspects to the agriculture picture. Some dark spots of agriculture are high taxes in an urbanizing area, lack of local water, the high cost of imported aqueduct water, and the immutable elimination of agricultural land for urban development, to name a few.

The good news of agriculture is the ideal growing conditions of the county which permits timely marketing of specialty produce such as tomatoes, lettuce, flowers and a variety of produce which is off-season and consequently higher priced in the colder areas of the county.

Even though the coastal plains are being removed from the agricultural land inventory, there are still vast areas of arable land needing only water to be placed into economic production. Brown emphasized that agriculture in San Diego was growing and thriving under economic conditions which were considered impossible in the past.

On balance, Brown pointed out that there were more positive factors going for agriculture. Agriculture is currently a leading economic industry factor in San Diego, behind only tourism and military related activities.

Moderator Struthers concluded the panel discussion by pointing out that the Otay Municipal Water District was established only 17 years ago for the exclusive purpose of providing badly needed irrigation water to the Otay Ranch and Otay Mesa areas.

Today, Struthers revealed, the Otay Municipal Water District serves an equal quantity of water to domestic and agriculture, and that the volume of agricultural water served has maintained a steady level for several years.

Currently plans are being formulated to provide a greater volume of water to both the Otay Ranch as well as the Otay Mesa agricultural areas through augmentation of the water systems.

Ironically, the District is accused of contributing to untimely urban development, Struthers stated, but water must be provided if agriculture is to provide the food needed for a growing urban population.

Occasionally a builder entrepreneur recognizing the intrinsic beauty of the San Diego back country areas will succeed in putting together a rural atmosphere home project. While this may not be the desire of the controlled growth planners, it does nevertheless result in some very desirable residential areas.

In the final analysis, it is the responsibility of the planning agencies to determine what shall be residential or a mix of residential and agriculture, and in either event, water has no inhibitions or bias toward either farm or domestic use, and is essential to both, Struthers said.

Title Company To Change Title

Security Title Insurance Company has announced a name change to Safeco Title Insurance Company, effective January 1, according to Don Harris, a local sales representative.

Harris represents the firm in Spring Valley, Lemon Grove, La Mesa and El Cajon, and has been a salesman with Security for about the past 20 years.

Harris resides with his wife and four children at 9037 Redfield, Spring Valley.

AREA OBITUARIES

Peter Jespersen

Memorial services for Peter Oluf Einer Jespersen, 69, of 6872 Mission Gorge rd., San Diego, were held Friday, Nov. 16, at Greenwood Mortuary, with entombment in El Camino Memorial Park Mausoleum. He died Nov. 12 in a hospital, within a month since the death of his wife.

A native of Denmark, Jespersen had lived in San Diego County 29 years. He had been a chief machinists mate in the U.S. Navy, retiring in 1947. He was a member of the Fleet Reserve Association Branch No. 9.

He had been a member of the Spring Valley Chamber of Commerce and had served as a board member of that organization. At one time he and his wife had lived on Del Rio rd., Spring Valley, then moved to Salton Sea Village, then back to San Diego County.

Peter Jespersen is survived by two brothers, Knute Jespersen of San Diego and Philip Jespersen of Maryland; and a son-in-law, Harold H. Pyer, of San Diego.

Mrs. Doris Hazard

Services were held Saturday for Mrs. Doris Irene Hazard, 60, 3400 Sweetwater Way, Lemon Grove, followed by cremation. Mrs. Hazard died Wednesday in a hospital.

A native of England, Mrs. Hazard came to San Diego County 25 years ago. She was a homemaker.

Survivors include her widower, John T.; a son, John L. of La Mesa; her mother, Mrs. Struthers also pointed out that the Otay Municipal Water District has long recognized that urban growth is inevitable and that the best of both can be realized by providing both water and sewer services to the urbanized areas.

"The effluent from the sewers is the raw product needed to support agricultural and open space development," he said. "Modern technology in water treatment/reclamation has made an anachronism of the concept of discharging sewage into the ocean."

"Every day in the San Diego area more reclaimable water is discharged into the ocean than is required to provide the water demands of the Otay Municipal Water District. This is a condition which we can not much longer afford. Every day it is perpetuated, we are denying this area of the benefits the reclaimed water would provide," Struthers concluded. Elizabeth Hockaday of Spring

LAST WIN IN 1968

Can Oakland Trip Bring Happiness to Wallermen?

The Chargers will finally get to Oakland but it may not be a happy trip.

Sunday's game is transferred from earlier this season when Oakland was pushed out of its stadium by a baseball game. It was World Series time there. So the two teams switched home dates.

The Chargers have a one-game winning streak and the Raiders have a two-game losing streak—so one team's streak is going to go.

The Chargers have not beaten the Raiders since 1968 when they stopped a 14-game Oakland win streak at Oakland, 23-14. Last year the Chargers tied the Raiders at 44,356. 9,518 stayed indoors. Oakland, 17-17. In the first game between the teams this year, the Raiders scored 14 points in the fourth quarter to beat the Chargers in San Diego, 27-17. Oakland leads the series 14-11-2.

A seven-week's drought ended when the Wallermen defeated the New Orleans Saints 17-14 with a rainy day attendance of 34,838. Ticket sales were 44,356. 9,518 stayed indoors. It was a happy throng, compared with hostile crowds of previous games. The Chargers' new razzle-dazzle brought cheers and applause.

Linebackers Mel Rogers and Floyd Rice won game balls which tells the story of the defense. The score tells the offensive line story.

"The Chargers' defense sacked Archie Manning three times—two by Dave Costa and the third by Ron East.

Sunday's game will be telecast by NBC on KGTV television. La Jolla's Charlie Jones and former Charger Sam DeLuca are the announcers.

Stu Nahan and Ralph Lawler will call it for KDEO and the Charger network.

The December 2 game will be in New England where the Chargers meet the Patriots.

Gulls Meet Portland On Home Ice Saturday

The Gulls play the final game of their two-game home series Saturday against the Portland Buckaroos at the Sports Arena.

They take to the road until December 4 when they return for a three-game set in five nights.

There's good news and bad from the Gulls clubhouse.

Valley; two brothers, Harry and Roy; a sister, Mrs. Kathleen Carrico, all of Spring Valley, and three grandchildren.

Rites were conducted by Rogers Mortuary.

Mrs. Carol Moore

Funeral services were held Tuesday for Mrs. Carol Moore, 58, of 7570 Hughes st., Lemon Grove.

Rites were conducted at Greenwood Mortuary, with interment following at Greenwood Memorial Park.

Mrs. Moore, a native of Washington state, lived in the area for 23 years. She died Friday.

Survivors include her widower, Aden; two sons, Larry, of Lemon Grove and Wayne, of Oceanside, two sisters and one brother.

Little's Golf Playoff Sunday at Rancho Santa Fe

Winners of Gene Little's Golf Inns of America tournament series will compete in an 18-hole championship playoff on Sunday, Nov. 25 at noon for the Carbonite Cup and a purse of $3000. It will be held at the Whispering Palms Country Club in Rancho Santa Fe.

Carbonite Corporation, an El Cajon firm that produces carbon graphite golf shafts, is sponsoring the playoff that will determine the top player of the fall secondary tour.

Winner of the Carbonite Cup will receive $1,500. Robert Basso, president of Carbonite, said that eight players will participate in the medal play competition.

Winners of the eight Golf Inns of America tournaments automatically qualify for the Carbonite Cup and the remainder of the field will be completed by selection of the leading money winners in the tournament series.

The six-tournament series began Oct. 17. Each 54-hole tournament has a minimum purse of $30,000.

"I am grateful that Carbonite's participation has made it possible to conclude the series in this way," Ted Valas, president of Golf Inns of America said. "There should be an overall winner, a champion of the fall tour. And now we're going to have one."

Good news is Willie O'Ree, who has been one of the major point producers in recent games. Earlier this year it was almost a certainty that he would be released.

Gulls coach Tex Evans told Sportscasters / Sportswriters Association Monday that while some of the players were complaining about the stiff pre-season training routine, O'Ree, well up in his thirties, was working full tilt at every session. And he did it without complaining, Evans said.

The bad news is a headline break in Connie Madigan's foot. He will be out of play for about 10 games Evans said.

Left wing and leading scorer Tom Trevelyan has a sore wrist; Al LeBrun has a jammed wrist and Bernie Gagnon has a twisted knee. Gametime Saturday against the Bucks is 8 p.m.

Record-setting Aztecs Host Texas Saturday

"We are uninvited," Dr. Ken Karr, Aztec Athletic Director and total offense leader had noted as the San Diego State completed 185 of 287 passes University football team won this season for 2369 yards its second NCAA playoff berth in a row.

Karr was grumbling that despite a 17-21 record, pollsters and bowl committees would get much more attention if it played in the afternoon instead of at night—long after the deadlines of most newspapers, teevee and radio east of California.

"We'd get our names in the eastern papers," he said, "but we'd go broke in the process." Last week Aztec quarterback Jesse Freitas, the nation's best player, was named the Aztec's Player of the Week.

The game will be broadcast over KFMB (760) with Ron back Jesse Freitas, the nation's best player, was named the Aztec's Player of the Week.

North Texas is 5-4-1 against the Aztecs 7-1-1 in NCAA play this season. A large turnout is expected anticipating more records from the record-shattering State team.

Art Hafez Wins 33rd; Love Fights Friday

By Max Goodwin

Art Hafez, San Diego's featherweight scrapper, made it 33-5-2 Friday night when he won a unanimous decision over Jose Olivares of Mexico City.

A turnout of about 1,400 fans watched Hafez, a Canadian-born San Diegoan, do a journeyman's job on the hard-punching Mexican. Fans responded with gusto and tossed money in the Coliseum ring to show their approval.

Olivares proved his toughness through the 10-round mainpiece by smacking Hafez regularly with a barrage of punches whenever Hafez caught up with him. But Hafez was relentless and stalked Olivares throughout, dropping him in the 10th for a mandatory eight count. Olivares' face was puffed and his right eye closed at the fight's end.

In the dressing room before the fight, Hafez displayed a desk set given him by Coliseum fight promoter Mickey Davies. Inscribed was "Art Hafez, the Coming Featherweight Champion". It was a generous gesture but it didn't take a lot of figuring out. Most ring people see Hafez as world champ—probably in 1974. Hafez doesn't disagree. He works seriously at his trade.

In another featherweight 10-rounder, Ad Zapanta wasted little time and motion. He caught Jose Valdez, of Tijuana against the ropes and dropped him with an overhand right at 1:58 of the first round. It became Zapanta's 9th knockout and his 14th victory in 18 fights.

In a five-round prelim, fans disagreed with the decision which gave the fight to Felix Garcia of San Diego over Augustine Martinez of Dulzura.

Hostility of the fans was unleashed in the six-round lightweight fight between Julio Lopez of San Diego and Victor Abraham of Long Beach. Fans reacted when officials called it a knockdown when Lopez slipped to his knee in the third round. When Abraham was named winner, fans showered the ring with paper cups, some containing a mandatory eight count. Olivares' face was puffed and he was hurled from the general admission section.

An off-again, on-again middleweight fight has been booked for tomorrow night. San Diego's David Love, a classy boxer, takes on Renato Garcia, Chile's noted brawler, in the 10-round main match. On the same card will be Chu Chu Garcia of Mexico vs. Angel Torres, of Rhode Island in a welterweight matchup.

A six-round preliminary bout pits lightweightweights Pete McIntire of Long Beach against Juan Alezando of San Diego. The Coliseum is at 14th and E streets. Fight-time is 8 p.m.

Matadors Take Grid Title

By Bill Ott, Jr.

SPRING VALLEY—English-born John Hulse successfully booted his second of four field goal attempts playing American football Friday night to give the Mt. Miguel Matadors a come-from-behind 16-14 win over arch-rival Monte Vista and the Grossmont League football championship for 1973.

Hulse's 40-yard boot, with 1:25 on the clock, was his longest. He made it with plenty of space to spare.

The Matadors and Coach Dwight Morris hope to move through CIF playoff opposition without having to depend on the toe of Hulse, but if action narrows down to a field goal, the junior can handle the assignment.

"My main sport is soccer, but I hope to continue playing football and make it as a kicker. We (Madigan and center Earl Carter) work together daily in practice to get timing down, but just practicing on my own I have successfully hit from 50 and 55 yards out."

The Monarchs, behind good line play and fine running from a host of backs and the passing of Steve Perdue, gave the Matadors all they could handle. A couple of costly penalties and a fired-up Matador team averted an upset.

Two major penalties helped the Matadors on the drive that resulted in Hulse's winning kick. The drive started when Reuben Ray intercepted a Perdue aerial in Matador territory.

A good crowd is expected Friday night as the Matadors open the CIF extravaganza against rugged Pt. Loma at Mt. Miguel at 8 p.m.

THE 'MONSTER'—Driver Johnny Johnson climbs behind the wheel of his VW in which he and co-driver Ron Junker won the Borrego 150 last weekend, completing the off-road course in 3 hours, 50 minutes. Trouble with shocks slowed the team down, Johnson said. In top picture, Johnson works at his "monster", a new light-weight off-road racer that the Lemon Grove driver says will "beat 'em all" when it is completed.

Lemon Grove's Johnny Johnson, winner with partner Bob Ferro of Sherman Oaks of the recent Baja 1,000 off-road race, is building what he calls a "monster, one that will whip 'em all."

He is putting together his latest vehicle in the garage behind his home at 6630 MacArthur dr., Lemon Grove, while competing weekends in off-road events in Southern California. Completion of the Borrego 100 at Ocotillo, in a light-weight (1,900 to 2,000 VW which both built. About pounds) racer is expected by 100 cars from this area were the first of the year. Johnson entered in the Borrego, Johnson said. The race, at 150 miles, was held Saturday for professionals, Sunday for amateurs.

Johnson drove the first, rough, leg of the Baja 1,000, from Ensenada to Bahia de Los Angeles, where speedster Ferro took over the chores.

"I was out of the car four times with problems," Johnson said, "for about seven or eight minutes each time. Bobby and I split the driving according to our abilities, since he is better at higher speeds and I'm better on rough roads."

Johnson said he teamed with Ferro—although both were driving solo in last year's Baja—to beat Parnelli Jones, who was highly favored to win the race. In fact, Jones drove the tortuous 865-mile course four times in a special van to tune up for the competition. Ironically, Parnelli dropped out after 23 miles when his Oly Bronco developed rear-end trouble.

"The race went off very well," Johnson, 30, said. "This was the first year it was held under Mexican sponsorship, and many drivers did not enter because of uncertainty." Only 140 competed. Proceeds from the race, he said, were distributed to charities in Baja California caring for underprivileged kids.

"When I handed off to Bobby, I gave him the car without anyone to pass," Johnson said. The victory was worth about $10,000 to the team, he added.

Other area drivers who finished the Baja race were Bud Googins of Campo, fourth, and Ray Ahlquist of Vista La Mesa, eighth, Johnson said.

USD Makes NCAA III Playoffs; Faces Tough L.A. State Saturday

USD, with team or individual leadership in four categories nationally, seeks to post its best-ever football record Saturday night when the Toreros host fast-improving Cal State Los Angeles.

Radio station KSDO (1130) will broadcast the 7:30 p.m. game which is to be played in the USD campus stadium.

Head coach Andy Vinci's Toreros stand at eight wins, one loss and one tie following last week's 61-0 win over Loyola University. Los Angeles State comes to town after a resounding 52-22 decision over Cal State Northridge and has a 4-5-1 season mark.

USD's record is so good that it will be one of four schools to compete in the NCAA III football playoffs. The Toreros will play Wittenberg College of Springfield, Ohio next week-end at a site yet to be chosen in San Diego.

Bridgeport, Conn. and Juniata, Pa. will meet in a similar playoff in the east. The two winners will meet December 8 in Phoenix City, Ala. for the championship.

The LA State Saturday encounter should be a real struggle. The Diablos took a 29-16 win last year at Los Angeles and should be at peak form for a repeat. They have won four of their last six outings after opening the season with three losses and a tie.

USD, after a first game loss, has roared back to win eight and tie one. The 1958 Torero aggregation currently has the school's best record, an 8-2 reading.

San Diego's power I offense director is quarterback Bob Dulich. The Saddleback College transfer rests atop the Division III total offense rankings with a 230.2 per game total, having completed 128 of 222 passes for 2000 yards and 20 touchdowns and tacking on 302 more by rushing.

Girl's Softball Team in Playoffs

The Valley Mesa Girls Softball Assn. team played the La Mesa II team at Lemon Grove field Nov. 13 and won by the score of 9-2. The Valley Mesa girls had a five-run seventh inning to put the game away. The battery was Donna Leyva pitching and Linda Klein pitching.

The team is preparing for the GSA tourney being held this week at Serra Mesa with teams from over the state participating. Valley Mesa girls won a post in the tourney by finishing second in their division.

'Everybody Wins' Golf Tourney Sponsored Here

An "Everybody Wins" golf tourney is being sponsored by a Lemon Grove firm.

Pal's Cafe, 3521 Imperial ave., has set such a tourney at Carlton Oaks, to be played on December 2.

Bob Taylor, Pal's manager, said that prizes valued at $750, range from golf bags to golf balls together with gift certificates for $75 and $50. A total of 90 contestants will be accepted. 70 reservations are already in, he said.

In addition to prizes for all, a video camera is being set up on the first tee. All players will be taped by Allen Campbell, a PGA pro who operates the Video Golf Shop in El Cajon. The tapes will be played during dinner hours—about 7:30 on the evening

For 74 years Britain controlled the Suez Canal before transferring its operation to Egypt.

Andy Williams Tickets

Tickets for the Andy Williams San Diego Open scheduled for January 24-27 will be on sale locally.

In Lemon Grove tickets will be available at Village Golf Shop, San Diego Trust, U.S. National Bank, Adams Shade and Tri-Co Floors.

In Spring Valley Sears and Home Federal will have them. Tickets will go on sale at all outlets on December 1.

Grossmont Had Its Troubles, But Won OK For A New Wing

By Win Bowles

If you think Little Orphan Annie has troubles, consider the trials and tribulations of Grossmont Hospital over a ten-year period in trying to get approval to build a new wing.

During the years, the hospital board had to win voter approval, twice had to go to county and medical boards for approval and, during the process, lost a veteran hospital administrator through forced resignation.

It was just two weeks ago that final approval was given to the project, estimated to cost in the neighborhood of $19 million, when completed in the fall of 1977.

In an interview last week, Hospital Administrator Ron Dahlgren gave this outline of the long, hard, pull to win project approval:

1963—Master planning was in the talking stage, with a need foreseen for a new hospital. (Plans were made to expand the hospital from 288 beds to 440 by 1970).

1969—Master planning became a reality, with a 14-member Citizens' advisory Committee cooperating with the hospital staff, board of directors and the administration. In August, a review of cost in the neighborhood of $19 million, when completed to the hospital governing board that the hospital be expanded by means of a joint powers financing authority in conjunction with the County of San Diego.

On Nov. 24, the county supervisors gave formal approval to the project and its financing, provided the voters gave a majority vote to the plan. Dec. 19, the Comprehensive Health Planning Association (CHPA) of the county also gave the addition the go ahead.

1970—In a March decision, the district's voters approved the expansion plans, and the CHPA's approval was extended to Dec. 19, 1971. Shortly thereafter, architects were hired and preliminary schematics were completed by October.

1971—Preliminary plans and specifications were completed and submitted to state health authorities on Feb. 8. However, since working plans were not submitted in 1969, an extension could not be granted until mid-1972, and the hospital was forced to re-submit the whole proposal, through the chain of command ladder.

1972—The second proposal was submitted in May, after Leverett Bristol resigned under fire as administrator. He was replaced on May 17 by Ron Dahlgren, who had been assistant administrator since June of 1971. Fourteen days later, Dahlgren had re-submitted the expansion plan, requesting that in view of prior approvals and extensions, plus voter approval, the proposal be given the green light.

Let's let Dahlgren tell the story from here on: After we resubmitted, there was resistance not only by CHPA, but also from other hospitals in the area. However, based on our occupancy factor — we run between 80 and 90 per cent of total bed capacity — we were able to convince comprehensive planning that we should again seek state approval.

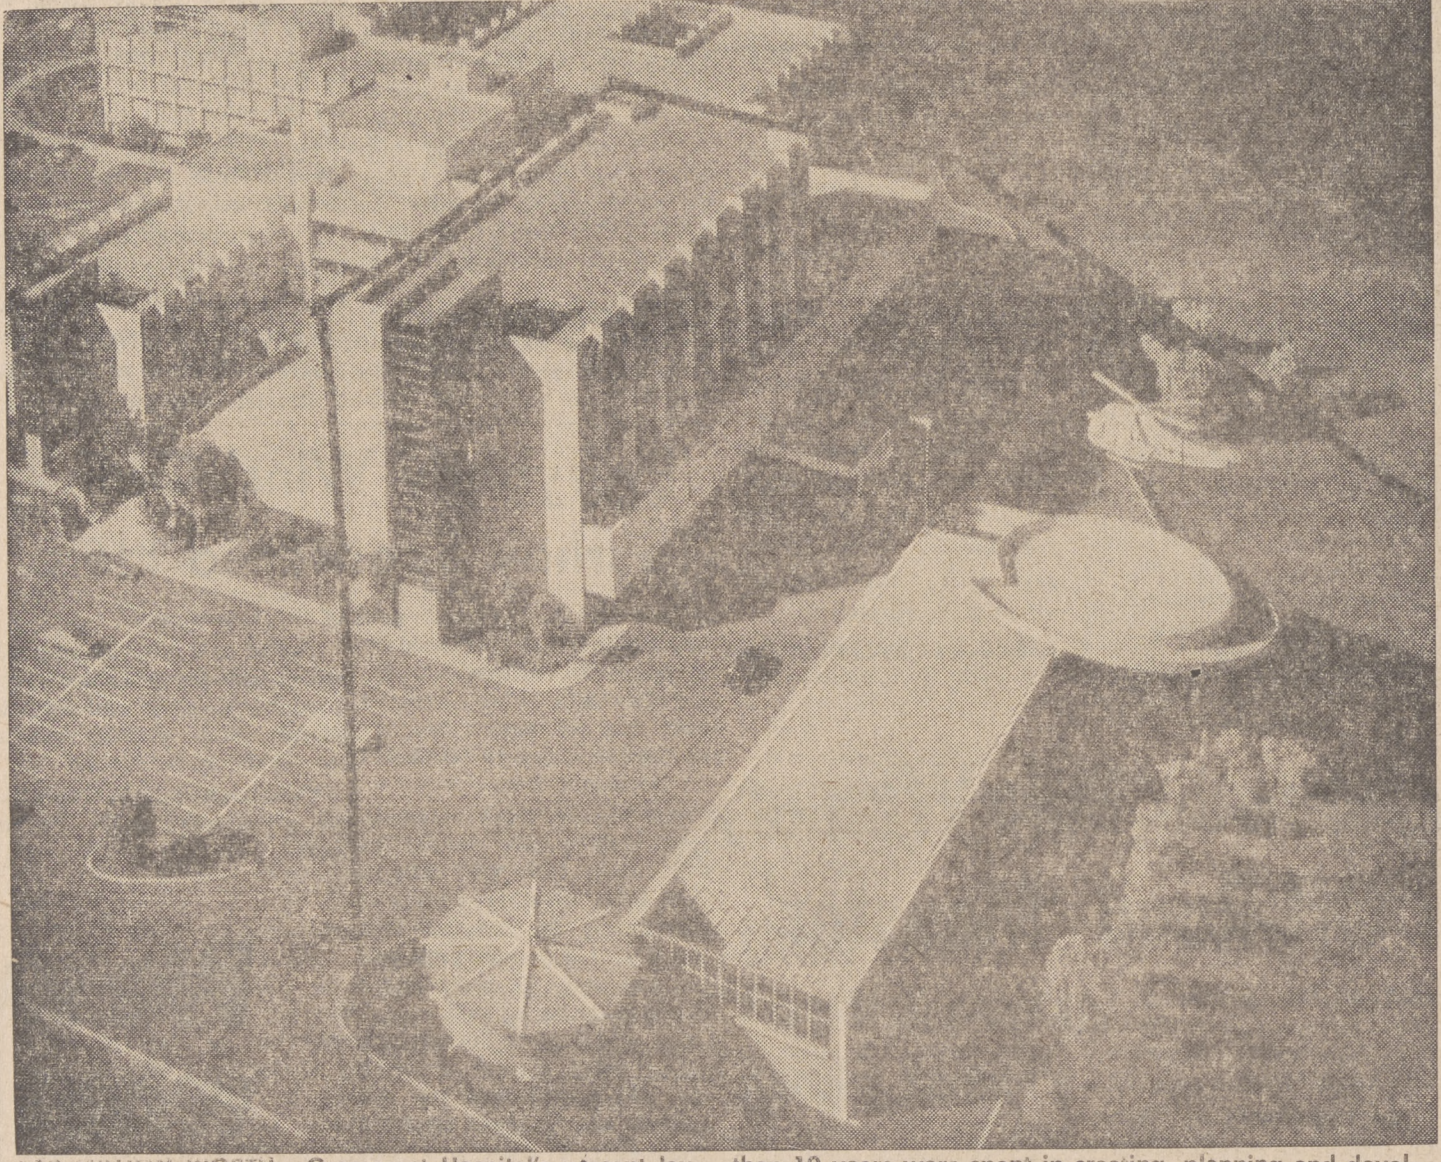

But first we had to fight the plan through the health care subcommittee of CHPA, who insisted on a quality of care review. The expansion program next went to the full comp planning committee, requesting a variance from state laws to build the facility.

Once these hurdles were over, we had to face the state — the health planning council, with a prior appearance before the health facilities subcommittee.

Dick Jacobsen, director of the county planning group, advised me not to go to the state, since it would cost about $2,000 to try to push the project through. I told him we had $565,000 invested in architect's fees and $1.2 million in an expanded power plant designed to serve an expanded hospital. So what, I said, is another $2,000?

It was a successful bet, though, since it paid off in state approval. Then, on Nov. 6, 1972, came a seismic bombshell, in the form of a state act to make such buildings earthquake resistant. That stopped us until March of this year.

We worked closely with the state to implement the seismic bill with regulations — especially ones we could live with. Sen. John Stull — then an assemblyman — picked up the ball and packed it for us when we needed help. We were successful in getting a grandfather clause in the act which

$19 MILLION WORTH — Grossmont Hospital's present layout (top) will be expanded by 1977 to include a $19 million dollar wing, outlined in black in the bottom picture. More than 10 years were spent in creating, planning and developing the idea to fruition, with many setbacks before the expansion received final approval from state, county, city and hospital authorities.

covered buildings proposed before the bill was passed.

To comply with the regulations, we amended our planning to include anchorage in our new wing, based on naval architecture. The building itself will sway with a quake, and equipment will be anchored so that, for instance, a laboratory microscope will not jump off its stand and crash on the floor.

At one time during the proceedings, one of our wittier staff members suggested dredging the San Diego River up to Grossmont Center, floating a battleship upstream and standing it on end, thereby solving all our problems of anchorage.

Once the state decided to act, the plans came to culmination rapidly. On Nov. 5, we got our okay from the state health department. On Nov. 6, the state fire marshal bestowed his blessing. On Nov. 7, the La Mesa city manager and city planner added the community's approval, and the same night, our governing board stamped the final seal of approval on our expansion plans.

Incidentally, Grossmont is the first major hospital in California to get building approval in conformance with the provisions of the seismic building act.

Vandals Shoot Up Windows In Casa de Oro

Vandals, armed with either pellet or BB guns, or both, apparently just loved to hear the sound of breaking glass Saturday night, reports to the Sheriff's Lemon Grove Station indicated.

Three such incidents, all on Madrid way in Casa de Oro, were noted. At a house under construction at 10311 Madrid, windows were broken all around. At Shepherd of the Valley Lutheran Church, 10269 Madrid, the gunners shot out lights and windows, and then proceeded to Casa de Oro Baptist Church at 10195 Madrid with the same result.

At the latter address, deputies recovered some beebies and pellets.

SPRING VALLEY MART—One of the area's larger shopping centers, at Sweetwater and Jamacha, pivots around the giant K-Mart store, one of a chain throughout the state. Shoppers enter and depart in bright sunlight from the parking lot, one of the largest available to customers of the store.

AS IT WAS—The heart of Lemon Grove centered around this tiny train depot when this picture was taken during the early days of the community. The depot was located at what is now the intersection of Broadway and Imperial, where street construction is now going on.

TORN UP—Broadway's improvement is an area indicates. The project is well underway, and daily progress can be noted in the improved pavement and the area will return to normal, hope, better than normal.

NEW TURN SIGN—This left hand turn indicator at Broadway and Sweetwater is part of the ongoing effort of the county roads department to upgrade the area's signal lights. Controlled turns were also put into working order recently at Sweetwater Springs and Jamacha.

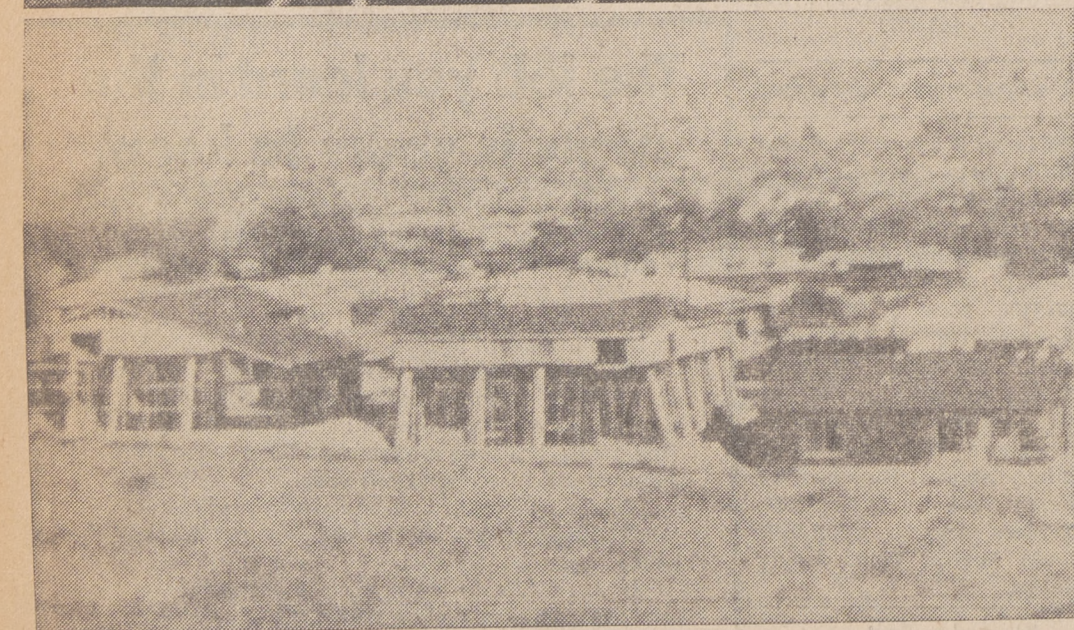

FORLORN—This vacant lot, on Broadway near Massachusetts, was the site until this year of the oldest building in Lemon Grove. It was torn down to make way for a commercial enterprise, but so far the huge lot is standing vacant and forlorn.

settles, was the site until this year of the oldest building in commercial enterprise, but so far the huge lot is standing vacant and forlorn.

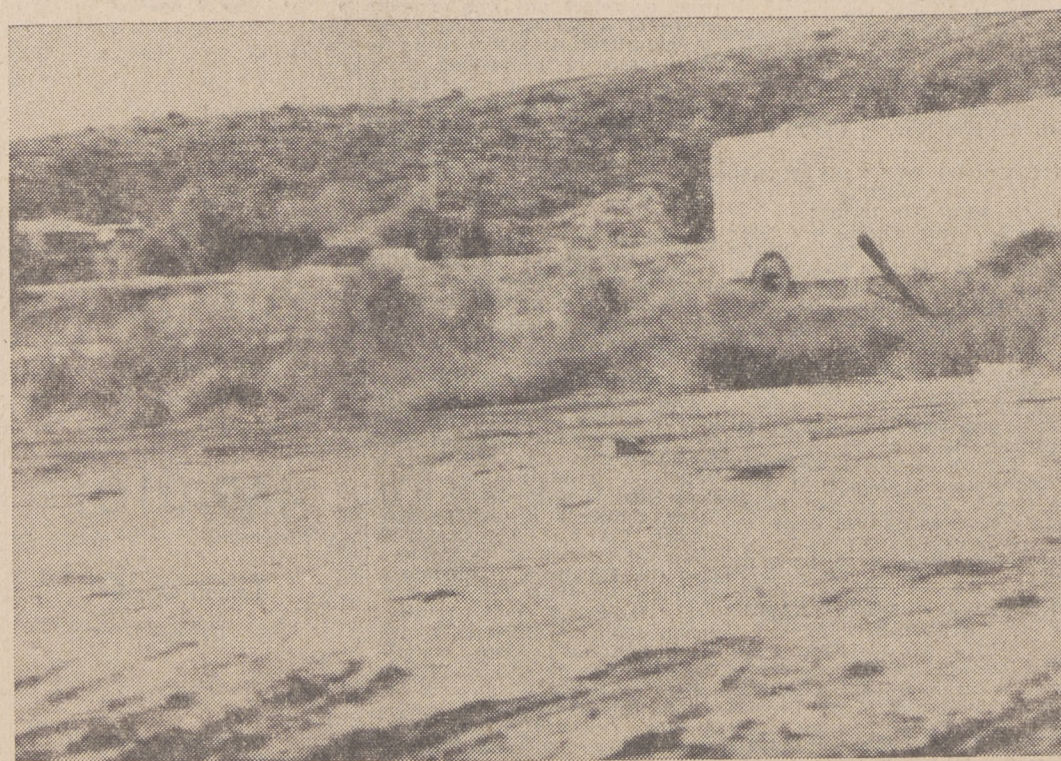

NEWEST STORE—Lemon Grove's newest shopping facility, FedMart, opened just last week at the corner of Massachusetts and San Altos. It was renovated by the firm, which purchased the ground and what used to be Bradshaw's market a month ago.

ON WITH THE NEW—Subdivisions, some appearance of Lemon Grove. The top photo shows some of the terraces being prepared while the lower picture is that of houses in along Sweetwater Road.

The Changing Face Of Lemon Grove

FREEWAY EXIT—It doesn't look like it now, but this vacant lot north of Main and west of Imperial will become, when the state gets around to it, an exit from Highway 94 to downtown Lemon Grove.

EXPANDED—There's a sign on the front of San Diego Glass and Paint Co. (top) which asks customers please to go west a few doors, where they will find the newest addition to age in SDG&P's expanded facility (bottom picture).
